Wars and unrest have forced millions of people to flee from their homes. An unconscionable number of them are destitute and ill as fighting and persecution continues. The sheer number of refugees and other migrants has not been this high since World War II.

9.5 million Syrians seek safety that cannot be found in war-torn Syria. The international community's response is tragically underfunded, and many relief organizations are without sufficient resources. In response to the many requests for suggestions, FJC has compiled a list of organizations that are working to aid these refugees. If you are interested, we are happy to assist you in making a donation. This is just a sample of organizations and FJC does not endorse one over another. If you would like more information on these or others, please do not hesitate to contact us.

For additional information on the response please consult the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) or the USAID Center for International Disaster Information.
